attracted a crowd of admirers to the quayside.

Wilson Marshall, owner of the yacht, was full of praise for Capt. Barr's splendlid handling of the schooner and attributed her victory to Barr's remarkable seamanship. Barr himself was specially pleased and announced that the Atlantic had beaten the Endymion's record to the Needles of 18 days 20 hours 38 minutes from Saindy Hook. He paid tributes to the crew of the Atlantic and their smart work throughout.

Later in the day the Atlantic was taken into dry-dock for a cleaning preparatory to competing in the Dover-Heligoland race which, Barr says, he calculates on winning.

Hundreds of congratulatory telegrams have been received by the owner and commander of the Atlantic.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—There was an awful good chance here to turn off some of our divine poetry. Just think what we might have done with "The Charge of the Light Brigade" or "Paps Won't Hit Mamma with His Peg Leg Any More." But since Alfred Henry Austin accused us of writing "The Raver" we have no heart, Besides, they are hiring real poets to write baseball gowadays and a good, honest blacks with must stick to honest tools.

I have talked with every member of the club and, like all true sportsmen, they will blame no one in particular for their position in the pennant race, but my steriously ascribe it to some devilleh and unknown factor. So here's how the L. B. M. relates a hard-luck baseball scory:

Chesbro Has to Give Up.

"We started off in Boston and they plucked one game from us on the level. In the next Chesbro had them beaten 1-0 in the fourth inning, when he suddenly threw up the sponge with a cry of pain and collapsed on the bench.

"We would have more than broken even, ho wever, had it not been for the players' injuries and indifferent pitching. Hogg did the best consecutive work, but sometimes he was not supported either in fielding or at bat. Then again we hit well when the pitching was bad. Things did not break together. It was the toughest trip we have ever known since we started in the L. B. M. business."

'I believe you're right,' says Connolly. 'It's a suspicious-lookin' hole anyway, an' I'll change me decision.' Thereupon he called it a foul, though roasted by every spectator in the grounds, and the game was a draw. In Chicago both Chesbro and Elberfeld quit the game, yet we managed to get one out of three. Cleveland Rubbed it In.

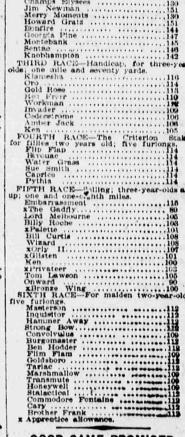

"In St. Louis Conroy struck a streak of hard luck, but Jack Powell's pitching gave us two out of three. Cleveland, however, was to be our real Joinah, trimming us three straight, with the help of Umpire Sheridan. We saw this man do something entirely strange on a ball field. Pitcher Joss lammed a triple in left centre, and cut first base by several feet. Griffith was the first to kick.

"Sure, gaid Sheridan, "I noticed it, but I recognize no complaint from the bench. It must come from a player."

"McGuire then took it up, but Sheridan grinned and said:

"You're too late."
